Cybersecurity For Employees Working from Home - 2021		Available Now	Gilad Perry

Many organizations have employees working from home which can create cyber-security risks for the employees and the companies they work for. This course is applicable to anyone who is working from home who aside from the most obvious types of cyber crimes, need to become informed on the less obvious ways breaches can occur and how to respond to them in a timely, safe manner.

Gilad presents the material in an easy to follow format and will cover what you need to know.

The question is not "IF" a breach will happen it is "WHEN" so put an hour aside and take this very crucial course.
